SAINT PAUL.

SAINT PETER.

THE latest investigations of the wall paintings in the wonderful Catacombs of Rome leave little doubt that we have here authentic contemporary portraits of the Saviour, the Virgin Mary, the Apostles and other great characters of the era of the foundation of Christianity.

 Ludwig von Rybel, the great German scholar and art critic, in a new work entitled "Christian Antiquities," deals with this subject and calls attention to the supreme interest to humanity of some of the portraits he has observed in the Catacombs.

 The Catacombs, it must be remembered, are passages and chambers cut in the rocky subsoil of Rome, which served as churches, graveyards and places of refuge to the first Christians. They were occupied immediately after the great tragedy of the Crucifixion, when the despised new religion was winning converts among the poorer classes of Rome, and when St. Paul and St. Peter went thither as Apostles. The poor Christians could celebrate in secret their holy rites in the Catacombs, and here they were safe from their bloodthirsty persecutors. St. Peter and St. Paul worshipped in the Catacombs. The artists who decorated the walls were familiar with the features of the great Apostles. They learned from them just how the Saviour appeared, and perhaps some of them had seen Him.

 In any case, it is reasonable to suppose that the Apostles who went to Rome made sketches to show the devoted followers of Christianity how the Founder of their religion looked in the flesh, and that from these the artists of the Catacombs worked. St. Paul, who was a highly cultivated man, surely had some knowledge of drawing.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all the paintings discovered is that of the Virgin Mary and the Child Jesus in the Catacombs of St. Eusebius. This dates from the first century, A. D., which means that it was made within seventy years of the birth of the Saviour. It was therefore made during the lifetime of many persons who had seen all the members of the Holy Family. St. Peter, for instance, according to well founded tradition, lived upward of a hundred years, and he would have been able to tell many thousands of Roman Christians how the Saviour and the members of His Family looked.

 This is the oldest known work of Christian art. It is remarkable as containing an authentic portrait of the Virgin Mary and also of another person, who is supposed to be St. Joseph, the husband of the Virgin, although there is still some discussion on this point.

 Professor von Rybel says that this painting impresses the beholder by its beauty, realism and sincerity, which are clearly apparent in spite of all the injury done by time. We do not find the Holy Family again depicted with such skill and feeling until the advent of Raphael.

 The Holy Child is completely undraped, while the mother with a sweet expression of face bends forward to nourish Him. There is a star over the infant's head, which proves clearly that it is a sacred picture and dispenses of the suggestion that this may be merely a family portrait of the period. The Holy Child holds His hand up toward the mother's breast, but with a new natural expression of curiosity turns His head around toward the man who stands at the left hand side of the picture. The man holds a scroll in his left hand and with his right points to the star above the infant's head. The natural inference is that this figure represents St. Joseph. It has been objected that he was not represented in sacred pictures of the first three centuries. It is suggested that, as the figure is pointing to the star, it may be St. Matthew, the evangelist, who mentions the star which guided the three wise men to Bethlehem. Most people will prefer the more natural explanation that this is the husband of the Blessed Virgin.

 Not less important than this picture is the head of Christ discovered in the Catacomb of Pontianus at Rome. This work is regarded as establishing our absolute knowledge of the true appearance of the Saviour. The head, shown in full face, is bearded. The face is of a regular oval contour, the eyes large and full of feeling, the nose very fine and sensitive. The hair is parted in the middle and falls to the neck. This type of face is repeated by a score of artists of the first and second centuries, who must have had authentic information of the Saviour's appearance.

 We learn how the Saviour's face appeared in profile from a portrait in the Catacomb of the Campo del Fiori at Rome. This also is considered a work of the highest authenticity. It confirms the evidence of the full face portrait as to the features of the Saviour. The beard is of the same length, and the hair falls to the shoulders. The forehead is lofty. It is interesting to note that the cast of face is Greek rather than Hebrew.

 In the Catacomb of Petrus and Marcellinus two wonderful portraits of St. Paul and St. Peter have been found. The names are written beneath them. These are unquestionably personal portraits of the Apostles and cannot for an instant be regarded as conventionalized representations of sacred characters. They are replete with character and individuality. It is not surprising that the early Christian artists should have been able to make excellent portraits of these great Apostles, for they were familiar figures upon the streets of Rome, probably for many years. St. Paul was the first Apostle to the Romans, and St. Peter the first Bishop of Rome.

 Physically the two Apostles represent very different types. St. Paul was a lean, nervous, intellectual face. His forehead is high and wrinkled, and his head is bald. We easily recognize in him the former member of the intellectual sect of the Pharisees and the man who had been admitted to the dignity of Roman citizenship. St. Peter, on the other hand, is a man of much heavier and rougher mould, as we should expect to find in an old fisherman. He is plainly a man of great determination, energy of character and physical strength. These same faces are repeated many times in other paintings of this period.

 In the Catacombs are found representations of nearly all the characters, incidents and remarkable events in biblical history. Needless to say, these are of supreme importance as the work of those who lived at the time of the foundation of the Christian religion. Of great interest is the painting representing Adam and Eve on the ceiling of the Catacomb of San Giovanni del Poveri at Naples. It is a beautiful work of art. The figure of Eve suggests that of the Capitoline Venus, while Adam recalls the statue of a Greek athlete. There are many remarkable features about this picture. Eve holds the apple in her hand without urging Adam to partake of it. But the most singular fact is that both are wearing aprons of vine leaves, although in the story in Genesis they did not feel the need of clothing until they had eaten the apple. Moreover, no serpent is present, although he is an essential feature of the account in Genesis. There is a mystery here. Professor von Rybel sup-

The information that on April 17 it will be in every fashion up the stairs of Grace Church were carefully discussing the plans for the wedding over a secondary champagne luncheon. The consensus of opinion had been settled. The drawing out of whether the hats should have been that were merely head or very head had been laid upon the table. The opinion of what should be equally becoming to a curly haired girl with upturned nose and a wedding maid with straight, shining hair such as Natica Rives was laid upon the table.

"It was that she who came appears on all the lips of the most exclusive affairs in New York society as Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, that when the Newport bride and all the bridesmaids addressed as 'Cynthia,' or in moments of forgetfulness 'Cynthia Roche,' made her claim of priority.

The philosophers of Newport, big and sorrowing for its life. They knew how that faithful young boy has triumphed, that the wedding which will take place at Grace Church on April 17 is "The match that Cynthia Roche made."

Back to the Newport season of 1924 goes the story. It was a preview of the season that Cynthia Roche, Natica Rives and Laura Swan laughed-laughed good on. By reason of her superb height--she was the tallest girl in Newport--her jarring as debonair it was their laughing habit spirit and even intelligence, Cynthia Roche was only the leader of the tide. From their friendship whole through the Natica Rives followed closely, for their trials and triumphs and amiable rivalries were the most intimate of friends, and of seven Newport summers, seven winters had many of the qualities that made Cynthia Roche the most interesting Newport-drawers of fun devotee. HERE COULD BE A REPORT IN THE CAN LOVE MAKING—of the University of Chicago, Who Declares

That Wives Are Bought
Like Cows, and Urges

Where Lovers Could

means of a situation which could have been avoided by the exercise of common sense and common sense.

"Courtship is a recognition of the freedom and personal rights of women, for whom marriage is decided by force, or where the wife is bought from the parents like a cow, or where she is compelled to marry to secure a fortune from a man whose love and personality is not respected. Compulsory marriage is a mark of low civilization, and in fashionable society there is some thing a return to barbarism. The offer of a title as purchase price of youth and wealth is on this level of a lower and earlier stage of culture. Our ancestors sold and bought wives openly and without shame; perhaps we may still observe what blackbirds and naturalists call marriage.

Young persons of both sexes should be taught, for they will not otherwise do it, that the conscious effort of a young man to win a young woman to marriage is a very natural marriage. The union of one man to one woman for life. May a merry hour may properly be passed in the quiet society of others without any purpose of marriage; but courtship, if it is honest, upright, Christian, is a series of acts intended to end in the establishment of a family. It is not that it is false, cruel, selfish and must end in sorrow of some degree and kind.

In the light of the above and of the ideal of courtship, one can judge certain kinds of conduct which are only too common, although they are not always adopted with a deliberate purpose to injure or deceive. "Flirting" is a too familiar mode of attracting attention and winning love, but it is only to cast it aside. The courtesy of influence encouragement to declarations of love, whether by man or woman, is unbecoming. Why should I need love be played and made to grow until its form is necessary to the mind and its roots are deep in the earth, only to pluck it up, bleeding away its life, and leave it to perish? Is there anything honorable in the least of "conquests"?

How young people should conduct themselves during the period of courtship after the promise of marriage is a problem to which too little careful thought has been given. It ought to be seriously considered by parents, teachers and young people who value purity, uncorrupted reputation and religious obligation. Engaged persons have made a serious error, and ordinarily they should hold themselves to keep it unless there is strong reason for breaking off the relation. But engagement is an actual marriage, in reality, morals, or law. Not loyally the duties of marriage, it cannot give the rights of marriage.

In some countries engagement is often regarded as equivalent to marriage, especially among workmen in crowded tenements; and this leads to many scandals and divorces, from which the women suffer most of the evil without having legal protection. Jonathan Edwards, the Puritan leader of New England, found it necessary to prevent against the too great facility of young people coming to his day, where she was committed under the promise of marriage.

Morality and dignity do not dampen affection, but make the light more brighter into old age. The period of courtship is an opportunity for education, selection, reason. Hence it should not begin too early in life. Sometimes a temporary time of separation, for reflection and comparison, with change of scene, may help the young man to make his lifetime decision with greater wisdom. The conclusion of this period is but a new beginning. Love," says Hilaire, "is the most perfect gift that God has given to man. It is a gift which transforms the soul into a creature of majesty and character; it causes the meanest man to loom up in the brilliant fancy of a girl in a mist magnified a thousand diameters of moral greatness.

Courtship is made all the more frivolous by the current mode of speaking and thinking of divorce. If marriage can be lightly dissolved, then a mistake in selecting a wife or accepting a husband, if it is imagined, will not prove very serious. But a courtship which does not mean fidelity for life is like a man with a worm eating out of his heart, like a tree growing in sand, and the very idea of divorce, covert under all the outward pretensions of uniting de-

Perhaps he should be free, and should for law courts, and as one of the best of his country, every upright and sensible man, mother, that he is free from all form of requirement for every means of instruction, commensurate disease. Some day this may persuasion and influence.

And What Clara Morris Has to Say on Teaching Love-Making by Curriculum.

I DON'T believe it—I can't believe it! I know Chicago; I know many of her people. It cannot be that her young men and maidens are so easily duped that they have to be taught how to court each other. It's just another of those pieces of epidemic folly which defy explanation and are becoming so frequent; they are as little suggestive of serious as our daily bread. There seems to be some strange influence emanating from Western college, especially those for Coeds, that is productive of freaks. If Professor Henderson, the Vishay, set upon an engine, or had an engine drive of arms growing from his body, such physical enormities would about equal his mental freakishness.

A college for Coeds?—almost I have tried too long when such a thing can be! And yet, if only I might see Charles H. Henderson, in class, solemnly teaching one "woman" in the art of love-making I should demand no more forever of fate. Mark Twain's humor—here would be laughter for life!

Suppose to select youth, walking with his fair one along the dappled garden walk, impulsively snags off a rose, the choicest bloom, meaning to hold the sweetest of its native world in its heart, and hoarsely pleads, "Wear it!" And she sees it at her breast, in proper pose, making love by rote and rule, the youth brings for her wearing a French millinery rose, commending its lasting qualities and dwelling on other essential merits; that thing of wealth, paint and wax; without perfume; without the life that gives the work—would that that exactly simulate the cut and dried quality of an insouciant word and would not any girl of spirit quickly blue-peace such a proposal?

Then, too, Mr. Henderson counsels of the "Hundred of Love." Oh, John Henry! for these illusions, pure and ruthlessly perfect. Though the curve and tremble of daily life may do them, no mortal being would willingly give the memory of that divine love-making.

Has the honored professor no fear of an uprising of Chicago mothers? Jon knows. "Honest courtship should lead to preparation for marriage in fact most little girls of ten are well acquainted with, and if this can be learned of home it may be well, but the help of school classes and expert instruction will be needed in order to secure the best result." Can you hear them—those mothers, who with illing bodies walked for months in the shadow of death before having thought their daughters into the world, who have nursed and watched and taught and nursed them, yet who have entered the young girl's life her mother?

How courtship, the offer and acceptance of a friendship which means marriage, should lead young persons to purity and chastity which error who neither teaches her daughter and waste about her as an angelic mantle of protection, an acquiescence in the knowledge and trials of a housewife. progress is not to assume at one leap the capricious and the miraculous; on the contrary, it is to follow the general trend of scientific thought and procedure, to make the usual hypotheses of the uniformity of nature and of the supremacy of the reign of law; to assume the intelligibility and harmony of the universe, and to endeavor mind to perceive directly the contents of another mind (as by telepathy) and that it perceives matter only through the senses of the organism it is connected with.

It is conceivable that there is an extended kind of telepathy possible, viz. telepathy from deceased persons, which may be either spontaneous or induced through a special trans-state of the living person used as communicative.

At the influence of a certain anisotropy in the properties of the medium, the interaction between the active elements leads to the production of movements in bodies without previsible contact, the production of a "phantom" movement, the transformation and transfer of physical energy in unusual directions—all apparently accompanied by some kind of subliminal activity, which is not directly perceptible to the senses. the most important of these is the fact that the world is not a homogeneous whole, but is made up of many different parts, each of which has its own characteristics and its own laws. This is the case with the world of the senses, the world of the mind, and the world of the spirit. The world of the senses is the world of the material, the world of the mind is the world of the intellectual, and the world of the spirit is the world of the spiritual. There it was discovered that the parents of the boy thought the lad was at work and were surprised to learn that he had been loafing about the streets. Lia had told them he had secured another job after leaving Reinold's employ and in support of SPRING BLOUSE PATTERN.—The model is a dainty blouse waist, with its neckline and pointed yoke, is a feature of the prettiest of the season's designs. The suggested measurements are given below, in combination with all-over ease. The mode is a practical one, as the plain yoke affords a good opportunity for a variety of decorative treatments. The motifs of embroidery or lace, bands of insertion or turning may all be used with equal effect. The pattern is designed for a blouse, but may be adapted to a long-sleeved tunic, if those in elbow length are desired.

Several materials are adapted to the mode, such as quail's velvet, batiste, muslin, tulle, or net. The suggested measurements for 36-inch bust measure three yards of 27-inch material will be required.

For the bodice the material, with pointed yoke, have been cut to allow for a 1/2-inch ease at the shoulders. The pattern measure, and may be obtained by fitting in the printed blank and reading, with instructions.

BOSTON AMERICAN, SUNDAY, MARCH 31, 1907.

More Solemn Resolutions from Dishonorable Men

This particular collection of shameless hypocrites HAS BEEN CAUGHT. That is the difference between these "Resolvers" and others of the same stamp.

It printed for our readers last week one set of resolutions passed by the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco. They called upon HEARST'S SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER to be ashamed of itself, and to cease basely attacking "Honorable" men—MEANING THEMSELVES.

Since these shameless supervisors drew up these resolutions and sent them to their shameless Mayor, they HAVE BEEN INDICTED FOR THE CRIMES OF WHICH THE HEARST NEWSPAPER HAS ACCUSED THEM, AND ARE ON THEIR WAY TO PRISON AND PUNISHMENT.

We want to impress most strongly upon our readers, and upon all American citizens, the nature of the attacks that are made upon honest newspapers for doing their duty.

We ask you to read again to-day a resolution passed by that same San Francisco board of dishonorable men. Here it is:

"San Francisco, May 26, 1906.

"To His Honor, Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz:

"Sir—The Board of Supervisors respectfully urges upon Your Honor the advisability of making immediate public proclamation that you are not a candidate for President of the United States upon a Union Labor or other ticket.

"This suggestion is made in all seriousness, with the view that it may mitigate the unjustifiable and irrational attitude of the EXAMINER towards Your Honor, based, as it must surely be, upon no other ground than Your Honor's deserved and pronounced popularity among all classes, especially among those whom the EXAMINER will call upon to support its chosen candidate for the Presidency of our nation in the next campaign, to wit: Its proprietor, William R. Hearst.

"Very Respectfully,

"Jas. L. Gallagher,	"F. P. Nicholas,	"E. I. Walsh,
"Max Mamlock,	"George F. Duffey,	"L. A. Rea,
"C. J. Harrigan,	"Thos. F. Loneragan,	"Sam Davis,
"Andrew W. Wilson,	"Daniel G. Coleman,	"James F. Kelly,
"J. J. Fury,	"P. M. McGushon,	"W. W. Sanderson,
"J. J. Phillips,	"Charles Coxton,	"M. W. Coffey."

Readers, if you have digested these solemn resolutions of reproach addressed to "His Honor," now indicted for crime, we would ask you to think of them in the light of similar attacks in the past and to bear them in mind for similar attacks that you will read in the future.

These resolutions sent to Schmitz, and THEN, and only THEN, signed by the Supervisors, NOT THEN ON THEIR WAY TO PRISON, were called forth BY THE FACT THAT HEARST'S SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER WAS ENGAGED IN THE WORK OF PUTTING THESE MEN WHERE THEY OUGHT TO BE, AND WHERE THEY WILL BE SENT NOW IF JUSTICE DOESN'T MISCARRY. IN THE PRISON AND OUT OF THE SERVICE OF DECENT CITIZENS.

The criminal Supervisors, rather dull in their cunning, not aware of the fact that the Hearst newspaper was even then armed with the proof for their destruction, acted with the usual impudence of their dishonest class.

The thief in office in this country has enjoyed immunity for so long that he has almost forgotten Tweed. The shameless exploiter of men that have trusted him with their votes fails to realize that if Edna Root, with his cunning and love of money, could not save Tweed, whose lawyer he was, lawyers of to-day less cunning and unscrupulous than Root cannot save others guilty like Tweed.

The resolutions which these impudent, self-confident San Francisco public accountants sent to the Mayor of their own choosing, a man who began honest, but fell before temptation, took the usual form of a personal attack upon the editor who was doing his duty by trying to put them in jail.

In this particular case the rascals chose to allege that Hearst was telling the truth about them and their Mayor because he was jealous of the Mayor's Presidential chances. Rather a humorous idea, considering that at that time Hearst's newspaper was busy preparing the evidence that would put Mr. Schmitz NOT IN THE WHITE HOUSE, BUT IN A MORE SECURE STRUCTURE.

Readers, we do not publish the resolutions of these shameless dull-minded grafters because they are important in THEMSELVES. We do not publish them from any feeling of exultation that these men, now on their way to jail, stand before the public as so many separate living vindications of the Hearst newspapers and of their honesty.

We publish these resolutions that voters may bear them in mind when they read in dishonest newspapers of similar insincere attempts to misrepresent honest effort on the people's behalf.

We want our readers to realize that in every big city in this country where the dews are heavy there is just the same denunciation of the honest newspapers and of the man that directs them. We care little about the attacks of dishonest men. Each of these attacks is a tribute to the man at whom they are aimed. But we do care if men supposed to be respectable, while misleading and robbing good citizens, are able to deceive them and turn them against a newspaper REALLY WORKING FOR THEM.

When we fought the gas thieves in Boston we underwent the same talk and high-sounding work. It must have deceived some citizens.

In all our fights against complicated dishonesty in New York city there is the same high moral, hypocritical denunciation from the "respectable" men that are profiting by stealing.

At this moment in Chicago, where Hearst's newspapers are trying to be worthy of the splendid support that the citizens have given them, THE SAME THING OCCURS.

Characterless men seeking for a chance to exploit the people use characterless newspapers as their mouthpieces. In just such places as those of the San Francisco supervisors, corporations and the corporation newspapers of Chicago have actually had the impudence to nominate for Mayor in opposition to an honest, loyal man, Judge Dunne, a man entirely without character, a man whose full record is unprintable, a man whose minor achievement was the shooting of his own friend in a midnight brawl.

In the face of this, there is the same hypocritical talk from shameless men. A newspaper that tells the truth to its readers and to all of the citizens is called "a thrower of mud" in Chicago to-day, as it was in San Francisco by the gentlemen now going to prison.

It is important for the people of this country to know that they should be honestly represented by their newspapers. A newspaper alone, watching the situation, speaking on behalf of millions, IS ABLE TO KEEP THE RADICALS IN CHECK THROUGH THE POWER OF PURITY.

And in order that the newspaper may do its work EFFECTIVELY it is necessary that citizens should recognize the newspapers that are honest and support them loyally.

We print these attacks of the criminal office-holding class of San Francisco BECAUSE THEY ARE THE BEST POSSIBLE PROOF OF THE HONESTY OF THE NEWSPAPER WHICH YOU READ. And the other best proof of that honesty are THE CUTTING OF THE INSINCERE, DISHONEST FIGHTS AGAINST THE SAME NEWSPAPERS MADE IN ALL CITIES WHERE CRIMINALS AND DISHONORABLE MEN ARE INDULGED IN THEIR PLANS OF PUBLIC EXTORTION.

We ask our readers to remember these resolutions of the Supervisors when next they hear the Hearst newspapers condemned.

Fix Your Thoughts on the Distant Starry Universe.

In the millions of suns and worlds beyond this little earth-speck lies the real interest of the earnest mind.

AD is the lot of dwellers in the cities.

God's great gifts to men are two. First, this beautiful earth, with its coverlet of trees and flowers, to give us physical comfort and happy contentment.

Second, THE GREAT OUTER UNIVERSE, THE STARS, SUNS AND WORLDS SPREAD OUT AT NIGHT TO STIMULATE MAN'S INTELLECT AND DEVELOP THE HIGHEST THOUGHT WITHIN HIM.

How little the dwellers in the cities profit by these great gifts of the Power that creates and guides them.

The man of the city does not touch the earth beneath him. His earth is an earth of stone, and asphalt, bricks and smoke and noise.

The man in the city does not see or know the wonderful cosmic world, THE REAL CREATION OF DIVINE POWER, spread out above in infinite space.

The city man cannot tell you whether the light that guided him home was that of the moon or a light of man's artificial construction. He cannot tell you what great constellations may be seen in our corner of space. The mystery of the stars does not touch him; HE DOES NOT KNOW OR SEE THEM.

Such a life is degrading to the mind. It means STAGNATION FOR THE IMAGINATION, and imagination is man's greatest possession, whether in the world of great ideas, or in the world of selfish activity.

No wonder the shepherds on the hills at night are those to whom we owe our religion and our noblest thought. As they watched their sleeping flocks their comrades of the night were the stars, that never sleep.

No wonder the boy from the country passes his LESS FORTUNATELY BORN BROTHER OF THE CITY. For that country boy KNOWS the earth on which his bare feet have walked. The moon with its changes has a meaning for him, and the stars distant and cold are part of all the first thoughts and dreaming of his young manhood. The life in the city for the average man is like a life in a cave.

We write this editorial and present this striking picture in the hope that we may persuade some thousands, with this beginning of the warmer season, to turn their minds away from this little earth, away from the cities, the stones, and the noise, to the eternal, infinite, bottomless depths of the sky, the regions of wonder and mystery, where the mind of man may travel on forever, without ceasing, always growing stronger.

The man who has no interest in the world beyond this, whose mind is fixed upon his little corner of this little earth, is like some beetle, mindful only of his haunt in a damp cellar.

The minds of powerful men have always been close to the mysteries of the infinite. Napoleon, at his star, thought of his star that was leading him on. It did lead him far. To HIS IMAGINATION he owed to it the marvelous success that he achieved, as he owed to his selfishness his final destruction.

The star of destiny was in his mind as a boy. The stars shining above the ship that took him a captive to St. Helena were the subject of his talk in the hands of his English captors.

Those stars were his friends, perhaps his only consolation, during the lonely prison days on the island where he died.

How calmly they looked down upon "the great man," that great man only a speck of dust upon another speck of dust called the earth, both specks invisible to the dwellers on the distant worlds.

We wish that we might persuade every reader to become a student of the creations and the mysteries outside of our little earth and its little orbit.

There was a day when travelers, discovering strange islands, found the dwellers on each island interested only in themselves, in their own little island, ignorant and indifferent as to all others.

Such men, so limited, caring for nothing else, seem small and dull to us, now that we have learned to sail across the oceans of our planet, climb its mountains and read every morning the news of its most distant parts.

But, readers, this earth on which we live is only a tiny island in the ocean of space. It is one of a few little floating bodies sailing around our little sun. The real universe to which we belong spreads far outside of this little earth, far outside of our little solar system, FAR BEYOND THAT MYSTERIOUS MILKY WAY, that universe within a universe to which we belong.

We urge parents to interest their children, especially those that show imagination, in the study of the stars. There should be a simple astronomy in every home, it should be read by day and the study applied at night. The beautiful constellations, the great "fixed" stars, the enormous inconceivable distances, the wonderful circles of our North Pole picking out our northern stars one at a time, the earth's many motions, the sun's vast bulk and heat, the mysteries of the dead moon, the marvellous beauties of the double and triple stars—all these should be part of the intellectual equipment of every promising boy and of every respecting man. Know the REAL creation, not alone this tiny earth.

18,000 TEAMSTERS MAY STRIKE IF UNION DEMAND IS IGNORED.

FOUR THOUSAND union teamsters will strike in Greater Boston tomorrow morning and the 15,000 members in Greater Boston may be called out in sympathy, unless demands for shorter hours and better wages and arrangements are complied with by the employers.

Cornelius P. Shea, international president of the Teamsters' Union, and Thomas L. Hughes, international secretary, are due to arrive in Boston this morning to confer with the local teamsters in connection with the strike of the Team Drivers' Local Union No. 1.

The two leaders were expected on the 10 o'clock train last night from Chicago. A delegation of officers of the local teamsters was on hand to meet them at the train. Finally they received word that the two would be here on the 7 o'clock train this morning.

A number of the master drivers have acceded to the demands of the teamsters and they will be able to go to work. But such firms as Fidelity, Richard & Company, J. B. Hillard & Company, J. B. Knight and Wright & Company are holding off and say under no circumstances will they concede the demands. These are the leading firms among the city master teamsters.

"Too Busy to Talk." The union men received that the increased freight business in Boston, their working week and the need for more money, and if necessary the 15,000 union teamsters in Boston and elsewhere will be called out unless their demands are granted.

At the office of Philip H. Henshaw, Jr., Mr. Richard prepared to make a statement. "I have been very busy," he said, "and I have not had time to see you. I am very busy, but I will see you tomorrow morning."

THOUSANDS SLAIN IN QALILS PEACE.

Roumanian Troops Massacre Men, Women, Children in Effort to Crush Revolt.

CIVIL WAR GRIPS NATION

Peasants Mowed Down by Grape Shot From Royal Artillery Despite Pleas for Mercy.

ARMY DESERTS TO REBELS

Cowering in Capital, Ruler and Family Wait in Terror While Cannons Boom.

BUCHAREST, March 30.—Roumania is in a state of civil war to-night and troops and peasants are butchering each other throughout the affected districts with insatiable ferocity. It is believed that the death toll will amount to thousands, if the total is even known. In pitched battle at Bistritza 600 were slain and 200 lost life at Vlasia.

The death toll in nine skirmishes amounts to three hundred. These figures do not include the Jews and the many landholders who have fallen victim to the fury of mobs. Moldavia and Wallachia have been the scenes of the most appalling massacres ever known in the kingdom.

At Bucharest, the capital, the king and queen have been holed up in the palace, surrounded by a few hours on the outskirts of the city. King Charles does not treat his army. Hundreds of soldiers have deserted and joined the peasants. He has surrounded the palace with machine guns.

A column tonight are speeding across the country to try to suppress the rebellion. A column of 100 men is on its way to the city. A column of 100 men is on its way to the city.

Peasants Seek Revenge. At first it appeared that the army was getting the upper hand through the vigorous repressive policy adopted. It is now apparent that the government has no chance to win. The rebellion has become a civil war.

Massacre Women and Children. Masses of women and children have been killed, fighting side by side with their husbands, brothers or sweethearts against the troops.

Lure Soldiers to Death. The peasants secured revenge for the first time at Vlasia. When a squadron of soldiers arrived at the village, they were met by a line of peasants. The soldiers were killed and the village was burned.

Urged Mobs On Jews. The Jews were urged on by the peasants. They were killed and their property was looted. The Jews were urged on by the peasants.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE BACK BAY SOCIETY GIRL?

Why Doesn't the Boston Millionaire Marry Her In stead of the Shop and Chorus Girl?

HAS CUPID turned the cold shoulder on the Back Bay society beauty and formed an alliance with her humble, wage-earning sister, to enter the market in Boston millionaires?

More than one anxious mamma with eligible and attractive daughters is asking the question.

"What's happened to our girls?" say the staid matrons in genuine concern. "We see they left the single blessedness, while the richest and most eligible man in town took wives in the eyes of the office and on the stage."

For years Boston millionaires have been a powerful force in the marriage market of the city. They have been the great power in the selection of wives, and their influence has been felt in the selection of the most eligible man in town to take a wife in the eyes of the office and on the stage.

Rich Mamas So Shocked.

Young B. B. Boston, former son of the Lionheart, is now, after the loss of his wealth, a poor man, and his daughter, who was once a rich mama, is now a poor girl. This is a sad story, and it is a warning to all rich mamas.

About the B. B. Boston, former son of the Lionheart, is now, after the loss of his wealth, a poor man, and his daughter, who was once a rich mama, is now a poor girl. This is a sad story, and it is a warning to all rich mamas.

And All So Happy.

Of course there is a happy ending to the story. The daughter of the poor man has married a rich man, and she is now a rich mama. This is a happy ending, and it is a warning to all rich mamas.

Venerable Leader of Christian Scientists Will Not Compromise Suit.

TO FIGHT CASE TO THE END

Letter Received on Behalf of Petitioners Offered a Settlement.

READY TO FILE ANSWER

Document Will Cover Case for New Hampshire and Boston Defendants.

CONCORD, N. H., March 29.—The BOSTON AMERICAN AMERICA CAN is able to make the authoritative statement that Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy will not compromise the suits that have been brought against leading Christian Scientists as defendants, with herself as the nominal plaintiff.

This statement is officially given to the BOSTON AMERICAN by General H. M. Baker, Mrs. Eddy's cousin and counsel legal adviser. General Baker states that an attempt has been made by the plaintiffs to compromise the suits, which will come into court here on Tuesday, April 2.

He refuses, however, to give the name of the man who made the compromise proposition, but declares that he is a man of standing and that the proposition was submitted in a honorable way.

Rumors had been prevalent that George W. Glover, the son of Mrs. Eddy, had withdrawn as a plaintiff in the case. The following interview with Mr. Glover dispels the rumor.

George W. Glover, Headmaster of St. George's school, was interviewed by the BOSTON AMERICAN. He said that he had no part in the suits and that he was not a plaintiff in the case.

He said that he was not a plaintiff in the case and that he was not a plaintiff in the case.

VINCENT CLUB GIRL WON BY NEW HAMPSHIRE MAN

Sally Pierce of Brookline This Week Announces Engagement to James L. Huntington.

Miss Sally Pierce, one of the most prominent members of the exclusive Vincent club, will on Tuesday formally announce her engagement to James L. Huntington, a senior in the Harvard Medical school.

Miss Pierce, who is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pierce, formerly of the Pierce family, Brookline, and a sister of Mrs. "Tom" Pierce, the widow of the late Mr. Pierce, whose wedding in New York last October was one of the most brilliant of the season.

She is a member of the Vincent club, and her engagement to Mr. Huntington is a surprise to many of her friends.

CALL BIG MASS MEETING

Prominent Speakers to Denounce Outrages and Call Upon U. S. to Take Action.

$175,000 FOR SUFFERERS

Roused by Atrocities, Prominent Men Bestir Themselves to Quick Action.

A VIGOROUS and united movement is on foot among the Jews of Greater Boston to obtain all information possible concerning persecution of and destitution among Jewish victims of the Roumanian revolutionary outrages, and to provide relief funds necessary to aid them.

Several meetings of various Jewish organizations have been held here during the past few days and have been attended for the most part by a large number of the most prominent of the Jewish community.

One of the most important of these will be a mass meeting to take place in Faneuil hall tonight, under the direction of the Boston Jewish Relief fund.

It has been decided to call Secretary of State Elihu Root to request the powers who stirred the Berlin treaty of 1878 to draw their signatures to the "day" of 1907, which guaranteed the Jews protection by the Roumanian government.

Among the speakers at this mass meeting will be Rabbi M. M. Lerner, Joseph H. Baker, H. M. Baker, and others.

A local $175,000 fund, raised from the Boston Jewish Relief fund, and the American Jewish Committee in New York and to which the Boston Jews contributed liberally, has just been placed by cable at the disposal of the German Jewish Relief fund.

It is the intention of the Boston Jewish Relief fund to send this money to the German Jewish Relief fund, which is now in the hands of the German government.

BUSSE MEN DESPERATE

H. C. Busse Fund Used to Buy Votes.

$2,000,000 FOR WORKERS

"I Have Tried to Be Mayor for Whole City," Says People's Candidate.

By Boston American Special Wire. CHICAGO, March 30.—The municipal campaign is practically closed. During the last hours of today Mayor Dunne's friends became more confident than ever. It was said tonight that Dunne's majority will not be less than 40,000. More conservative than his campaign manager, the Mayor himself estimates his majority at 25,000.

The Busse men are desperate. A fact which is around the breakfast table of the Dunne headquarters and among Dunne's enthusiastic followers. The workers are burdened with money. If a dollar was spent for the postmaster tonight there were $200,000. The workers will witness similar endeavors.

Mayor Dunne jumped eagerly into the fray in the day. He made speeches at the stock yards, talked to railroad carmen, and visited the homes of the Sherman House headquarters, submitted to the newspaper in reviews in the afternoon and tonight attended a dinner in the heart of the south side campaign work.

Mayor Dunne's friends are confident that he will win. They are confident that he will win. They are confident that he will win.

BABIES WHO WIN BEAUTY PRIZES THIS WEEK

ALFRED
DOYLE
8 MONTHS

By Eleanor Ames

"A It was the question asked by the judges as the huge piles of Prize Baby Contest photographs sent to the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN were looked over in search of prize beauties.

It is a natural question. Those of us who handle the pictures daily must ask it. The BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN repeats it hourly.

Were prize offered for the plainest baby, the duty of awarding would be ten times as arduous, for not a single baby but has its charm. And the quality of the baby pictures increases with the quantity. And the quantity grows beyond counting.

Never has any beauty contest aroused such deep interest.

The question of what makes for beauty in a baby is very broad. There are many people who say that any baby is beautiful, simply because it is a baby. Mothers feel that their own babies are beautiful, even if they don't say so.

Standard of Beauty.
In starting this splendid Prize Baby Contest, the BOSTON MONDAY AMERICAN had for its prime object the fixing of a standard of baby beauty, and also the secondary object of proving that Greater Boston babies are the most beautiful and most attractive in the world.

What constitutes child beauty.

I asked the question of one of the judges, Miss Mary L. Macomber, whose paintings of children have made her famous all over this country and in Europe. Miss Macomber studied a moment before she answered:

"What makes beauty is always and almost inmost a question to answer," she replied. "There are so many things that are transformed

Miss Mary H. Kilson is the most famous woman to grow in the United States. She is 18 1/2 years old. She is a student of the University of Chicago. She has received a scholarship to study in Europe. She has received many medals in the United States and in Europe. She has received many medals in the United States and in Europe. She has received many medals in the United States and in Europe.

Mrs. Jean P. SELLINGER is a famous singer. She also celebrated an important birthday in Boston, as provided in one of the theater Boston's most prominent and popular artists. Sings in Copley Hall.

Mrs. Jean Paul Sellinger is the wife of Jean Paul Sellinger and is equally gifted with her celebrated husband in the use of the brush. She is famed for being the most successful flower painter in the United States. Her wonderful work in oil and water color. Attracted the most favorable comments from art critics of every civilized nation.

Here are five more Prize Babies. Of them the judges said it does not seem that five lovelier children could be found. For personal comment they called Alfred Matthew Doyle "a typical baby with a beautifully proportioned head and face."

They enthused over little Dorothy Cameron Crew and one artist declared, "She will grow up to be a very great and good woman. Her face is full of sympathy."

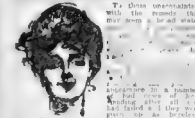

Little Elyzabeth Tappenden was declared to be "a most unusual
